The History Of Weed

The time is 1889. The place is Siskiyou County, in northern California. The man is a 47-year-old native of Maine named Abner Weed. He is dickering for the Maxwell sawmill located on Summit Lake on the north slope of Black Butte. Eleven years later Weed has moved his operations to the site which eventually will become the town of Weed, California 96094.

Now the scene shifts. The time is now. The place is any place in California from San Francisco to San Diego, or any place in between. Or it could be any place in the Midwest, the Southwest, the Deep South, or the East Coast. The men are a native of Siskiyou County, a Weedite (to coin a term), and a native of "any place." The Siskiyou native speaks.

"I'm from northern California, Weed. About halfway between Redding and Ashland, right at the junction of 97 and 99."

There follows a predictable choice of reactions from the other native. He will either (A) say, "Oh yeah, beautiful country up there" or "Good hunting and fishing, isn't it?" or some other remark indicating familiarity with the area or (B) arch an eyebrow while his visions of the place are perfectly obvious as he says in a tone of complete disbelief, "You've got to be kidding!" Should (B) be the reaction, the Weedite can point out the obvious cultural deprivation of his companion by a casual reference to the novel Of Mice and Men by John Steinbeck, whose main characters arrive in southern California from "up north around Weed."

At this point the White and Gold staff of Weed High would like to acknowledge and thank those who were so very helpful with this all-too-brief history of the town with the peculiar name. The pictures are all courtesy of Roger Zwansiger, a great-grandson of Abner Weed, and his wife Pat. Much of the information came from The Siskiyou Pioneer and Yearbook, Volume Three, Number 10, 1967 Weed Issue, a publication of the Siskiyou County Historical Society, Mr. Frank E. Lewis, editor. And in all probability, little did Miss Leland Moore know that when in 1938 she married Kenneth Tebbe Stone, who lived in this area all his life save for time in college, that she would become a recognized authority on the Weed area.

Abner Weed (1842-1917) was born in Maine and lived with his parents until 1863 when he joined the Union Army, serving for two and a half years. He returned to Maine after his discharge, staying there until 1868 when he headed for Iowa and a year later, for California. He spent about twenty years in the Truckee area of the Sierra Nevadas and then in 1889 Abner Weed came to Siskiyou County. In 1894 Weed bought a sawmill at Summit Lake from the Maxwell brothers, but troubles drying his lumber, the small size of the mill, and the overworked area, for the mill had been operating since the '70's, prompted Weed to look for a new location.

Abner Weed's Maxwell Spur Mill 1896-1900

He bought land a few miles north of Maxwell's Spur from George Decker for a new mill site. This is the property upon which the main part of the town of Weed now stands.

He also bought the Nelson Harvey Eddy ranch for his home. It was self-supporting, furnishing grazing land for some of the livestock used in connection with the mill and housing some of the mill workers. Still very much as it was when Mr. Weed lived there, the ranch is now the Zwanziger Ranch on Highway 97, operated by a great-grandson, Roger Zwanziger.

The town bearing his name began in January, 1900, when Weed had his son-in-law clear a large tract of land at the end of what is now Main Street, then the county or stage road. The first mill, housing a circular saw, was built in 1901 at the site of the present firehouse. Yard #1, located between the mills and the box factory, and the loading decks from which he shipped the ties cut for the Southern Pacific, preceded construction of Mill #2 adjacent to #1 and to the south. The box factory, built in '02, was expanded in 1907 to include a sash and door manufacturing department, at one time the world's largest. The first powerhouse, at the rear of the box factory, was built soon after the factory began operations.

In 1904 Weed formed a corporation, bringing in stockholders, the most prominent of whom was R. A. Long of the Long-Bell Lumber Company of Kansas City. Not long after the formation of the corporation, Weed sold the major portion of his interests, but Long continued to buy stock until 1923 when he owned it all.

A battery of dry kilns was installed in 1906-07; a planing mill for surfacing and shipping lumber, in 1910. The plywood plant, one of the pioneer veneer plants in the industry and the oldest one running today, made its debut in 1911. A new sawmill was completed in 1918 and a new powerhouse in 1922.

#1 Sawmill, built 1900, was powered by . . .

an Atlas steam engine. Both fly wheels are made of wood. The men in the picture are not identified.

A merger of the Long-Bell Company with International Paper took place in 1956. Since then, there has been a continuous modernization program. A new modern planing mill was completed in 1959. More recently the sawmill has been completely electrified and new log debarkers constructed at both the mill and the plywood plant. A more recent addition, the sawmill chipper, first made chips in April, 1965.

A man might be content without schools, churches, and stores; but their women are not. Families need houses, schools, churches, and stores. The first house Mr. Weed built, now designated as 23 Main Street, was for the family of W. O. Stone. Stone had charge of the work horses, an important job then as business was run by a combination of manpower, steampower, and horsepower; in those days the latter term meant real, live horses. The first company houses were built just north of Mill #1 but were moved later to make room for Yard #2. A string of houses became Stringtown. Rabbit Flat was so named because of the many rabbits roaming the brush there; people from Camino, California, lived in what became Camino Row. There seemed to be no set plan for building houses or laying streets, so houses were built when it was convenient to build them, near the mill or on Main Street. The town of Weed, like Topsy, just grew. The many Italian families were permitted to build in A, B, and C Camps, all company property. Employees of Greek origin lived in D Camp.

In 1901 the Weed Mercantile was constructed next to the box factory. In addition to the commissary, located in what is now the fountain and drug area, the store contained a butcher shop, a Wells Fargo office, the Weed Lumber Company Office, and a small postoffice where Mr. Weed was the first postmaster.

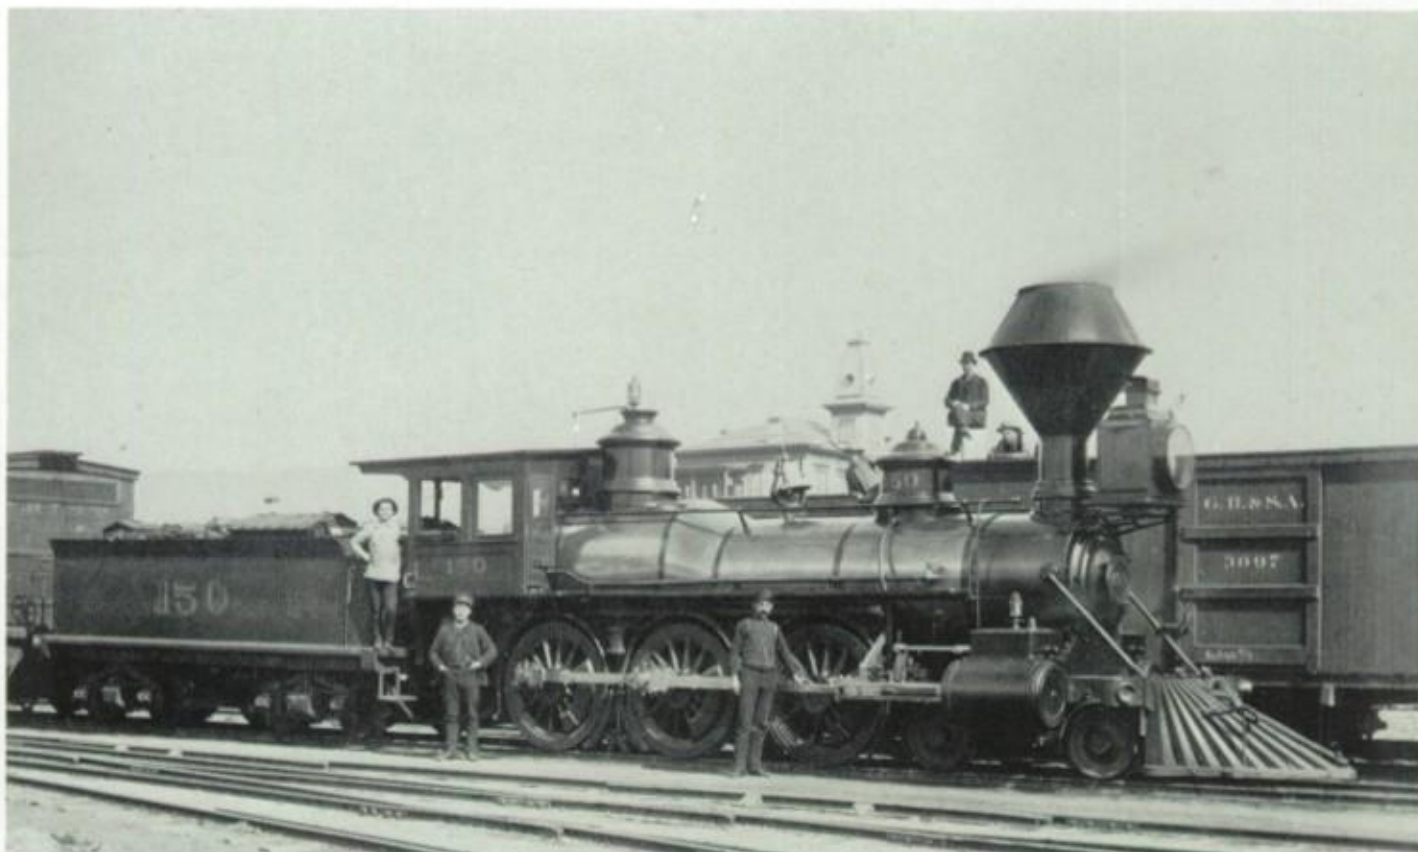

The Florence Hotel, built sometime after 1903, was named for the daughter of G. X. Wendling, president of the newly formed Weed Lumber Company. It eventually became the Weed Postoffice, serving until the new one was built. The White Pine Hall was overhead. The Hippodrome, a popular dancehall for many years, was burned to the ground a number of years ago by some children heedless of Smokey the Bear's admonitions about playing with fire. It was built about 1920.

Telephone service began on December 1, 1905, with five subscribers. In 1966 there were 1672. In 1968? We didn't take time to check. Commercial power came in 1909 with a substation located near C Camp. Ten men formed the Weed Volunteer Fire Department in 1912 with headquarters on the second floor in the back of the company store. Receiving a call to duty, the men pulled two-wheeled carts with a roll of hose slung over their shoulders. Then in 1920 the new, and present, fire station was built and paid firemen installed.

The exact date when the people of Weed first met for the purpose of worship cannot be determined, but about 1904 townspeople met in a grove approximately between the Holy Family Catholic Church and the Grace Presbyterian. Services were conducted each Sunday by a Methodist minister from Sisson. Because of the various church affiliations of those proposing to build a church, a community church was planned. However there was a need for some established church to sponsor the group and supply it with ministers and needed materials. Because of the missionary service of the Methodist Church, it was first invited to organize the Weed congregation. However no money was available for financial assistance so the Weed people turned to the United Presbyterian Church of Sacramento which contributed $700 to get the original church started. On September 1, 1907, the first church in Weed was dedicated as the Mt.

Shasta Church, built on land donated by the Weed Lumber Company. The first Catholic Church is dated about 1913. Other denominations have, of course, come in since then.

Readin', writin', and 'rithmetic came early to the area. Little is known about the very first school though. According to Supervisor S. C. Jackson, George Connors (deceased) told him that the first school in the area was located at the eastern end of the Jackson Ranch. An old oak tree marks the spot. Nothing is known about its founding nor its fate, whether it was public or private. However an old school desk was unearthed there, and Mr. Connors told him of two people who attended that very first school.

The Weed Union Elementary School District of today is the offspring of the union of two school districts, both of which were older than the town of Weed. One was the Mt. Shasta School District; the other, the Summit School District. Mrs. Leland Stone, in her story about the Weed schools in the Weed Issue of the Siskiyou Pioneer, says that the earliest date on record that she has found for the Mt. Shasta District is March 16, 1869, this a census report of the families having children attending the school. From that date until January 8, 1906, eighteen teachers were at the school receiving from $25 per month and board to $75 per month. The old building was located on what is now the Hoy Ranch and is still standing and intact. It is, in fact, the living room of the A. B. Hoy home. There were two long vacation periods. The one from July to September was to allow time for haying and harvesting. The other, from mid-December to mid-March or April, was because of the winter weather and the long distances some of the children had to travel.

The other district, the Summit School district, started in 1884 or 1886, so far as is known, and was located in Igerna, a small locality situated at the end of Old South Highway near the area of Richfield storage tanks. Probably in late 1905 or early 1906 after the start of winter vacation, the old Summit School burned down. Early in 1906 steps were taken to join the two districts for the purpose of building a new schoolhouse in Weed. Two elections were necessary before the plan became a reality, and the Summit Union District was formed in April, 1906. The Weed Lumber Company donated 300 square feet on top of a hill across from town.

In the meantime, however, a Mrs. Harry Avery got involved. The Averys had purchased a lot and built a house in a wilderness of brush. Not too far away, an unidentified man bought a lot, cleared it, and erected a building with intentions of operating a saloon, which would have been nearer the mills, the cook house, and the bunk houses than the other saloons. (At one time in the past, Weed had a total of fourteen—count 'em, ladies and gentlemen, fourteen—saloons.) Undoubtedly her doubts concerning the necessity of still another saloon, especially one so close to a home which housed a teen-aged son, the burning of the old Summit School, and the distance to the other school in the area plus a possibility that she may not have been aware of the plans for a school on the hill prompted Mrs. Avery to take a petition from door to door proposing that the saloon be turned into a school. She was successful so school in 1906 began in the new Summit Union District in what is now Angel Valley. In the 1908-09 school year the principal of the school, realizing that his one-room, two-teacher, eight-grades building was too small, built himself another one-room building on land donated by the Weed Lumber Company, the first building on top of School House Hill. It served until 1951 then it was razed.

Then came 1910. A new school appeared on the hill, one constructed of concrete blocks, all of which were made in what was probably the first concrete block plant in the county.

By 1916 a two-story frame building was erected behind the other to accommodate the rapid growth of the town. Between 1920 and 1966, new classrooms, an office, an auditorium, combination gym and cafeteria, and garage for the school bus were added. Then in 1966 the four-room block school and other of the additional structures were demolished to make way for a new, modern plant. By the way, the block school was heated with pot-bellied stoves using cord wood until 1938. The school bus was purchased in 1949.

A Golden Anniversary is coming up in Weed. This school year, 1967-68, marks the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of a Weed High School. The original high school, located on School House Hill, consisted of two classrooms, two restrooms, an office, one faculty member, and nine or ten students. It was a two-year branch high until 1919 when it became a four-year school.

Continual increases in the student body prompted the building of additional classrooms. Eventually a home economics department was added. A gym was built in 1927; the shop building, in 1928. For over forty years that high school served the needs of the community. Then in 1959 the new high school, the one now used was built on a larger tract of land only a short distance from the original school which has now been taken over by the city of Weed. Three of our teachers Miss Scott, Mrs. Hughes, and Mr. Rossetto claim Weed High as their alma mater.

The latest addition to Weed's educational facilities is the College of the Siskiyous, a two-year junior college, established in 1957. The original three buildings blended well with the picturesque surroundings, as do the others added since then. The first commencement exercises were held on June 5, 1960, with the lone graduate Miss Sarah Alvarado of Weed. Miss Alvarado attended and graduated from both the Weed Elementary and Weed High Schools.

In a way, the growth of the schools is the story of the growth of the town of Weed—a town that cannot be considered a pioneer town in the true sense of the word, but a town whose history is still alive in its streets, its houses, its churches, and its schools.

Absolutely no good reason exists for using this picture. The time, the locale, and the men are all unknown. Still this photo seems to personify the early lumber camps, the early days which make up the early history of Weed. You know, that's a good reason right there.

SISKIYOU MEMORIES

I know a place where the fern is deep
And a giant fir waves high
A dripping ledge hangs cool and sweet
And a laughing brook leaps by.

I know a stream in a leafy dell
That the wary trout love best
And a timid trail through the chaparral
Where the red deer lie at rest.

It's there to be with a soul that's free
From the street's discordant jar
With a blanket spread on a cedar bed
And the rest of the world afar.

A night bird's call when the shadows fall
And a cougar's lonely cry
A silence deep and a dreamless sleep
Under the open sky.

The year's almost over, but there's still a lot to do. Don't lie down on the job. (See Sandy above).

Before we reach the end (see above), a welcome back to Mrs. Hughes and Miss Scott from the students and faculty. It's good to have you back after a year's absence.

*WE, THE MEMBERS OF THE CLASS OF '68, IN FULL APPRECIATION FOR THE FRIENDSHIP, THE DIRECTION, THE ADVICE, AND THE HELP THAT WE HAVE RECEIVED, DEDICATE OUR SECTION OF THE 1968 WHITE AND GOLD TO THE FOLLOWING PEOPLE . . .

MISS DEBENI . . .

for her inexhaustible help to us in getting our projects off the ground. We could always rely on her.

Butte Valley rolled up four victories and 1 tie to win its first eleven man football, Evergreen Championship. Three things accounted for the Bulldogs highly successful season. One, the Bulldogs had a well balanced team with no weakness in offense or defense, line or backfield. Two, Mr. DeBortoli, coaching his first year, played a great part in leading the Bulldogs in team spirit and play. Three, the willingness and desire to win was the greatest aspect of all.

Dedication

We as freshmen, and Mr. Aahl started high school together. Now, as seniors, we want to thank him for seeing us through with the extra patience that only a dedicated teacher has. He has willingly given his time and effort to help us. He is always available for counseling and extremely interested in our future plans. Therefore, our section is respectfully dedicated, with our thanks, to our principal, teacher, and friend, Mr. Martin Aahl.

CURRICULUM

Today's problems are vastly complex. We turn to the Social Studies department for one source which helps us understand our problems, showing us the mistakes in the past and successful achievements.

These girls help Mr. Green keep the office running smoothly. (L TO R.) Trudy Iaconis, Rita Conklin, Rosemary Brunello, Kathy McIntosh, Nancy Cary, Kathy McCollum, and Mr. Green, Principal.

In our complex world math is a necessity. Algebra I lays the foundation for many of technical fields of today.

Homemaking teaches girls methods of sewing and cooking, as well as ideas in health and child care, all of which are important to future homemakers.

A basic knowledge of the living world is essential. This knowledge is to be gained in a course of Biology I.

Today's businessman demands many things of a secretary. Bookkeeping teaches students the correct methods of accounting and recording business transactions.

Painting the traditional numerals on the sidewalk was fun even if we did get paint all over us.

Raising money is always of major importance. Selling candy, book covers, and having a spaghetti dinner were some of the ways we made money.

Unfortunately, the season record for the Varsity team doesn't show many of the hard efforts of the boys who were out at practice every night trying to gain enough experience to win for their student body. Their record may not be the best, but they don't need criticism; they need more men who are willing to play hard.

The Junior Varsity season this year has turned out to be very exciting. With the high-scoring and with the ability of Ken Lovelady and Rick Hanson, the Junior Varsity has become a threat to the Evergreen League Championship. There are six returning lettermen on the Junior Varsity which have shown great potential for next years varsity. The Freshmen have shown the will to play and plan to have a winning season next year.

Weed, California

logs like those held in the jaws of this trio of Lumberjack stackers at our Weed Operations are the basic raw material for high-quality Long-Bell products. And logs are a backbone of Siskiyou County's economy. At Weed we convert Ponderosa pine, Douglas fir, sugar pine, white fir, and incense cedar logs to their highest possible potential with maximum utilization. Many factors are considered and evaluated in properly allocating each log either to the sawmill or the plywood plant; including log diameter, length, amount of decay, knots, splits, and shake. Lumber and plywood products produced at Weed last year were shipped to customers in nearly every state in the Union. Kiln dried lumber is manufactured in selects, shop, commons, and dimension stock, with pine shop utilized in the millwork factory. Pine doors, sash, furniture shelving, and box shooks are made at the factory. Plywood items include sanded and sheathing, plus knotty pine and knotty cedar. Additional wood utilization is provided through production of hundreds of cars of chips annually for paper making in the region. Our harvest of timber in the Weed woodlands and conversion of logs to wood products employs approximately 700 people with annual payroll of $4.7 million. Another million dollars is spent locally each year in purchases of materials, supplies, and equipment. Annual payment of about $2 million to independent contract loggers and truckers further boosts the area's economy. It all starts with the log. We are dependent on it . . . on its perfection or imperfection . . . on its availability and its adaptability. And from it we must make profitable products to meet the challenge of today's competitive market.
